Learning & Skills

Targeted 1:1 learning in the home

What is Intensive Support?

Intensive Support aims to reach parents, grandparents and carers who wish to improve their skills. Many do not have the confidence or skills to attend a structured course. For those individuals, a tutor will come out to the family home or a venue of their choice and work on a 1:1 basis with them. Intensive Support learners can learn at their own pace, complete a course in the home and gain the confidence to join a more traditional learning group when ready.

Intensive Support Offer:

- Healthy lifestyles
- Confidence building
- Self-esteem
- Basic careers advice
- Signposting to other services
- Employability Skills
- Functional Skills
- Family Learning and Parenting

The Intensive Support Team works in partnership with other practitioners and agencies, including the Early Help Assessment process to ensure all needs are met.

Progression is an important part of Intensive Support and we support learners to progress to further learning.

Benefits of Intensive Support

- Increased confidence
- Support to become effective parents
- Improved independent living skills
- Improved family relationships
- Encouragement to participate in further learning or to join a community group
- Support to participate in further learning
- Support to make life choices

Referral Process

Referrals are accepted from professionals and practitioners involved in supporting families. Self referrals are also accepted. Postal, telephone or email referrals are accepted and a referral form is available on the website www.darlington.gov.uk/learningandskills.

Once a referral has been received, a member of the Intensive Support Team will arrange a visit. Initial visits are joint with either the referrer or another member of the Learning & Skills team. The Intensive Support Tutor will undertake an assessment of the learner's needs, complete an Individual Learning Plan with the new learner and agree the support to be offered.
